

BIOGRAPHY

Ms. Mayada Adil is a Young Leader for the SDGs. She is a Sudanese medical doctor, fashion designer, woman rights advocate for health equity and a refugee rights activist. Based in France, she has worked on campaigns focused on ending gender-based violence, specifically against female genital mutilation in Sudan and Mali.

Ms. Adil was selected by the French Foreign Ministry to represent Sudanese youth at the Paris Conference for Sudan in 2021, and she has represented Sudanese women at the Generation Equality Forum, where she addressed the importance of integrating refugee women in societies and communities across France.

The LaLoupeCreative artistic platform, co-founded by Ms. Adil, supports refugee artists around the world, providing them with an opportunity to participate in a training programme that can help develop their skills and create “art clinics”.
