The Economic and Social Council is the central platform of the United Nations for policy review, policy dialogue and recommendations on issues of economic and social development (A/RES/72/305). The UN Charter mandates ECOSOC to serve as the central forum for discussing international economic and social issues and for formulating policy recommendations addressed to Member States and the United Nations system (Chapters IX and X). The Council is also vested with the authority to prepare studies or initiate reports on a wide range of issues. It also has the power to assist the preparations and organization of major international conferences on economic and social and related fields. It is also mandated with the integrated and coordinated follow-up to the outcomes of the major UN conferences and summits in the economic, social and environmental fields and ensuring the balanced integration of the three dimensions of sustainable development.

« Major United Nations Conferences and Summits and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development »

The focus of ECOSOC’s policy dialogue and guidance functions has broadened and changed over time to respond to various the evolving development landscape. The Council began promoting integrated follow-up to major UN conferences and summits in the 1990s and then reviewed progress, identified gaps in implementation and recommended priority follow-up actions for the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals in the 2000s. With the adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its 17 Sustainable Development Goals, ECOSOC has also focused on promoting coherent and coordinated UN system support to Member States in the delivery of the 2030 Agenda and other international commitments.

ECOSOC fulfils its policy guidance function through its segments, forums, functional commissions and expert bodies. This includes the Council’s High-level Segment, Coordination Segment, Operational Activities Segment, Humanitarian Affairs Segment and Management Segment as well as other ECOSOC forums discussed in a separate section below. The ECOSOC system, including the Regional Commissions and the ECOSOC functional commissions and expert bodies, have an important role in supporting ECOSOC’s policy review and guidance. According to the 2030 Agenda, while the thematic reviews of progress on the SDGs, including cross-cutting issues, take place at the High-level Political Forum on Sustainable Development (HLPF) under the auspices of ECOSOC, they are also informed by reviews carried out by ECOSOC functional commissions and other intergovernmental bodies and forums.

In its resolution 68/1, the General Assembly undertook a significant strengthening of ECOSOC’s policy dialogue and guidance functions with a view to the establishment of a coherent and integrated ECOSOC system, where all components of the Council and its annual cycle are complementary and deliver results “greater than the sum of its parts”. A key priority was improving the complementarity and effectiveness within the ECOSOC system, drawing on the different strengths of its segments, so as to best support policy dialogue and guidance.

The selection of an annual main ECOSOC aimed to improve the effectiveness and relevance of its policy dialogue and guidance on sustainable development for Member States and development actors. To the extent possible, ECOSOC and its segments and forums align their annual work and guidance to the main theme. Doing so harnesses the power of the Council’s full range of resources, including those of its functional commissions and expert bodies, through improved harmonization, coordination and a clear division of labour vis-à-vis the over-arching theme. In its resolution 72/305, the General Assembly decided to adopt one annual main theme for the HLPF and ECOSOC. This has allowed greater focus in the work of ECOSOC subsidiary bodies on enhancing their impact and contribution to both ECOSOC and the HLPF.
The 2030 Agenda is a universal agenda that treats sustainable development holistically across the economic, social and environmental dimensions. In its implementation, integration across these three dimensions is essential. ECOSOC as a whole supports the implementation of the 2030 Agenda through policy dialogue and by providing integrated policy guidance and recommendations to Member States and to the ECOSOC and UN development systems. The integrated guidance and recommendations disseminated by ECOSOC is built on the technical outputs and inter-governmentally agreed conclusions and resolutions emanating from the subsidiary bodies of the Council.
