

Hello, we are aespa.

We are so honored to be here today. Our group aespa uniquely moves in between reality and virtual reality. We exist here, in the real world, and our 4 avatars exist in the Metaverse. Together, we are often called the “Metaverse girl group.”

People are paying more attention to creating the best possible metaverse world, as it transcends many boundaries: reality and virtual reality, time and space, genres and generations. As the Metaverse accelerates, we have to ask the question: are we working just as hard to create the best possible real world?

The metaverse reflects reality. If our own reality is not sustainable, it will become difficult to sustain the possibilities of the virtual world. Without sustainable ecosystems, or equal opportunities for quality living, there will be no real world to be mirrored.

That is why the topic of sustainable development is so urgent, and why this generation must support sustainable development goals.

aespa will continue to connect with the next generation through music, and we will work to represent sustainable goals in reality, and within the Metaverse.

Once again, thank you again for having us. We are honored to be here to discuss a topic that is so important for our generation. We will now be performing our song Next Level. We hope you enjoy!
